Modular Homes, Inc. Set to Open New Design Center in March

Modular Homes, Inc. is set to open a new design center in Edison, New Jersey, this March. Centrally located, the design center will enable clients to review products and materials in order to customize the look of their new modular home. The design center will feature top of the line products from vendors like Moen kitchen and bath fixtures, Merillat cabinetry, and Jeld-Wen windows and doors, just to name a few.

The design center for Modular Homes, Inc., features a full service kitchen, showcasing GE slim-line appliances, and Merillat cabinetry. Upon entering the design center, the customer will be welcomed by a cozy fire place in the sitting area, where customers can peruse catalogs featuring the custom built modular homes for which Modular Homes, Inc. is known. In addition, on the flat panel television above the fireplace, clients can view an actual house set, which typically takes place in one day.

At the Edison location, clients can also meet with the in-house Sales Specialist and Architect, to develop their own customized floor plan. All the details are covered, from the layout of the space, to the placement of lighting and electrical fixtures.

The design center will also serve as the new home office location for the staff. Modular Homes, Inc. still maintains offices in Morristown, Essex County, and Atlantic Highlands, Monmouth County. Although the company is based in New Jersey, Modular Homes, Inc. serves customers on a national level, and is currently working on projects in northern New Hampshire and upstate New York as well as with architects based in Seattle, Washington.

The Edison location was developed in collaboration with Design 446, a full service advertising and marketing company that specializes in the building industry. Design 446 is located in Manasquan, New Jersey.
